Junior Eurovision: a brief history:

Inspired by a Danish children's show in 2000 that expanded to Scandinavia's MGP Nordic. Junior Eurovision was first run in Copenhagen, Denmark in 2003, with Croatia taking home the first JESC trophy. Artists competing must be between the ages of 9 – 14 on the day of the contest.

Junior Eurovision Table:

Differences between JESC and ESC:

The contest has been through many changes in its 15 years, and while there are similarities between the Eurovision Song Contest and Junior Eurovision Song Contest, there are some very distinct differences too:

- Until 2017 the winning country was given the right of first refusal, Junior Eurovision hosts are selected via a bidding system. The first winning country to host the following year was Armenia in 2011. The host city for 2018 was announced prior to this year's contest.
- Supporting vocals may be included on the backing track; they do not need to be performed live. However, all leading vocals must be performed live. Like at Eurovision, instrumentals are all included on the backing track.
- Up to eight performers are allowed on stage at Junior Eurovision, while a maximum of six is permitted at the Eurovision Song Contest.
- Since 2005, all participating countries have received 12 points automatically, making a finishing score of 12 equivalent to a nul point result. Fortunately, this has yet to happen.
- The song must be sung in any of the national languages of the country it is representing, although up to 40% of lyrics are allowed in another language.
- Performers must be nationals of the country, or have lived there for at least 2 years.
- The song must last a minimum of 2 minutes 45 seconds; there is no minimum length at the Eurovision Song Contest. Both contests set a maximum song length of three minutes.

Participation:

Only active member broadcasters of the EBU are permitted to take part and vote in the contest, though the show has been screened in several non-participating countries, and contest participation may be extended to Associate Members.

Participation tends to change dramatically each year. The original Scandinavian broadcasters left the contest in 2006 and revived their regional MGP Nordic competition, which had not been produced since the Junior Eurovision Song Contest began. Other nations have withdrawn due to reasons related to finances or ratings. Out of the thirty-seven countries that have participated at least once, only 2 countries – Belarus & The Netherlands – have competed in every Junior Eurovision so far. Georgia is the most successful nation at the Junior Eurovision Song Contest with three wins and one 2nd place. Belarus currently have two victories and one 2nd place, and Malta have two wins in the bank as well.

2017 Host City: Tbilisi, Georgia

- Founded by King Vakhtang I Gorgasali of Georgia in the year 428 (although there has been evidence of human settlement in the area dating from 4000 BC)
- Declared Georgia's capital city in 1122
- Population: 1.5 million (out of Georgia's total population of 3.7 million)
- Mayor: David Narmania
- The name comes from the old Georgian word T'bilisi (თბილისი) which means 'warm location' in reference to the city's sulphuric hot springs.
- For the past 800 years the territory of Tbilisi has been under Mongol, Iranian, a 4 year term of independence between 1917-1922, and then Soviet control. Georgia became an independent nation again in December 1991.
- The iconic Georgian alphabet is unique to the country; there are 3 different (and beautiful) scripts. Mkhedruli (მხედრული) is what makes up modern Georgian, with Asomtavruli and Nuskhuri being used only in ceremonial religious texts and iconography.
- Tbilisi is twinned with 4 former JESC host cities; Yerevan, Kyiv, Minsk & Sofia

2017 Venue: The Olympic Sports Palace

The venue was built in 2015 for the 2015 European Youth Summer Olympic Festival. It was opened on 13th July 2015 by Georgia's Prime Minister Irakli Garibashvili, the complex features two halls for sports events. As an arts venue, it is capable of holding an audience of 4,000. Originally GPB had announced the Tbilisi Palace of Sports as the venue, however the Olympic Sports Palace was deemed more suitable so the contest was moved.

2017 Hosts: Helen Kalandadze Lizi Japaridze

Helen Kalandadze is an accomplished singer, music producer, and youth music school director from Tbilisi. She appeared on the Eurovision stage in 2010, where she sang backup for Sopho Nizharadze's 'Shine'. In 2009, she took part in the show 'Star Academy', and was the 2013 winner of the Georgian edition of 'Your Face Sounds Familiar'.

Lizi Japaridze, better known to Junior Eurovision fans as 'Lizi Pop', was Georgia's representative at Junior Eurovision 2014 with her song 'Happy Day'. At only thirteen years of age, she will be the youngest Junior Eurovision host ever.

Voting

There are, generally, no set voting parameters at Junior Eurovision and the process changes most years. Traditionally all Eurovision events have been judged using a combination of jury and/or public televoting, however this year sees the first time that online voting will be used at any of the Eurovision family of events. There will still be a jury vote, which will be combined with the online vote to produce a winner.

There will be a short clip of the song from the rehearsal on stage uploaded to the official website: www.junioreurovision.tv these will be uploaded on the Friday before the contest. Viewers can vote for 3,4 or 5 countries when the voting opens and this time voters can vote for their home country. Voting will close before the live show on Sunday and will then re-open during the show for a further 15 minutes of voting.

The new style of voting announcement, which was introduced at the Eurovision Song Contest in Stockholm 2016, will continue with the spokesperson announcing the results from each countries jury in the usual 1-8, 10 & 12 point Eurovision style. Then the results from the online vote will be combined together and then added to the scoreboard one country at a time, this means it will not be clear who the winner is until very late in the score announcement, last year it came down to the very last one.

Title	Speak Up
Language	English
Composers	Toby Chew Lee, Cameron Nacson, Chloe Papandrea & Jess Porfiri

Her mum signed her up with a vocal coach and singing quickly became her new life focus. In the four years since, Isabella has taken part in many singing competitions and achieved the role of principal vocalist for the 'Victorian State Schools Spectacular'. Beyond singing she loves food and Australian comedies like 'Kath & Kim'.
----------------	--

Song Description	This is power pop at its most fun! The songs message is to stand up for what's right no matter what your age, and we have a classic key change for the last chorus! The video was shot in one continuous take at a school in Melbourne and features many of Isabella's friends and classmates.

Song Description	Middle-Eastern Ballad, Drum 'n Bass, R&B & House are just some of the music styles that this fusion piece offers. It's definitely on the mature end of the JESC spectrum but with online voting at this year's contest that may see this song do very well. Helena's vocal performance is very strong and she shows both power and control in her voice throughout the song.

Song Description	If 'MedPop' was a genre then this would fit right into it! Absolute classic pop with just a hint of that Cypriot/Greek flavour. The lyrics are of self-belief and self-empowerment to achieve your dreams, however they definitely push the 60/40 language rule.

In October Grigol travelled to Switzerland to compete in 'Star's Voices Grand Prix' where he triumphed in first place with his cover of Stevie Wonder's 'Superstitious'.
----------------	---

Song Description	It would be easy to say that this song is dated and old-fashioned, but it's more than that. It throws back to the 90's style ballad but still manages to be contemporary at the same time; think Bruno Mars and Olly Murs! This soft ballad gives Grigol a chance to show off some vocal gymnastics and hit some notes that are sure to impress both jury and audience alike.

Song Description	Muireann's song is a mid-tempo, contemporary, guitar-lead piece of Celtic music. The vocals are soft and ethereal as we've come to expect from Ireland. The song is quite different to many of the pop numbers in the show, however running order will be crucial to this songs success.

Song Description	A mid-tempo power ballad which Polina delivers with a vocal maturity much more advanced than her years.
